26/... The negative impact of corruption on the enjoyment of human rights

At its ... meeting, on ... June 2014, the Human Rights Council, recalling its resolution 23/9 of 13 June 2013, in which it requested its Advisory Committee to submit a research-based report on the issue of the negative impact of corruption on the enjoyment of human rights to the Council at its twenty-sixth session, took note of the relevant progress report submitted by the Committee,[1] and noting the request made by the Committee to extend the time schedule envisaged for the research-based report to allow for better informed work, inter alia, by analysing the numerous recently received responses to the questionnaire,[2] decided to request the Committee to submit the final research-based report to the Council at its twenty-eighth session.
